

RESIDENT CULVERT POLICY
EFFECTIVE 10-8-94

If a resident replaces or repairs their culvert, for whatever reason, then it is their own financial responsibility.

If the village as part of a community project (such as ditching), replaces or repairs a persons culvert, then (like sidewalks) the resident must pay half the cost of the work.

If a resident replaces or repairs their culvert, at their own cost, and within five years a village project that would have involved work on that culvert takes place and the work on that culvert meets standards of work the village would have done; then the village will reimburse the resident for half the cost of the work done up to the amount the village would have paid.
